Introduction

Created in 2014, primarily for the Hinkley Point C nuclear power station, Somerset Larder produce up to 7000 meals a day to a network of 10 restaurants and food outlets as well as catering for over 4000 events so far.

What makes Somerset Larder different from many of the other food manufactures across the country, is their vision to use locally sourced ingredients from all over the west country. Their philosophy is to nourish the community with local produce and to employ local people, using apprentice programs aimed at developing future careers in the catering and hospitality sector.

The challenge

The team at Somerset Larder consists of 28 members, operating across all disciplines, from baking and patisserie to quality restaurant standard courses. The team are conducted according to a strict food safety management system, to ensure the quality and safety of all food produced.

With this in mind, it is essential that Somerset Larder use the right workwear garments that are comfortable, robust and adhere to all the necessary safety standards.

The Somerset Larder logo is boldly embroidered on all the team member uniforms which consist of Bib aprons, Chefs elastic waist trousers, Chefs long sleeve jacket, Chefs short sleeve jacket, food trade jacket and polo shirts.

The Solution

CLEAN's agility allows for swift, effective decisions to accommodate the ever-change business needs of Somerset Larder. Our partnership is true testament to a symbiotic relationship that should be strived for in every business partnership.
